THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 2010
1:30 - 4:15pm, School of Medicine Auditorium #110
Symposium & Panel Discussion
Reception to Follow

Come join the conversation and influence the debate.

Martha J. Farah, Ph.D.
“Brain imaging, babies and bathwater: Misguided critiques of fMRI”
Walter H. Annenberg Professor of Natural Sciences
Director, Center for Cognitive Neuroscience, Center for Neuroscience and Society
University of Pennsylvania

Gregory S. Berns, MD, Ph.D.
"Neuroimaging of sacred values"
Distinguished Chair of Neuroeconomics
Director of the Center for Neuropolicy
Professor of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences,
Emory University School of Medicine
Economics Department & Goizueta Business School,
Emory University

Stephan Hamann, Ph.D.
"Neuroethics, sex, and politics: Perspectives from neuroimaging"
Associate Professor of Psychology
Director, Department of Psychology Cognition and Development Program
Emory University

Co-sponsored by
The NIH# T32-08605, The Neuroscience Initiative, Emory Center for Ethics,
The Graduate Program in Neuroscience